

TWO GIRLS FIGHT LIKE MEN.

Tessie Moran and Maggie Nady
Battle Over "Matt" O'Brien

The Young Amazons and O'Brien
Are Each Aged Fourteen.

Policeman Martin H. Pick, of the East Thirty-fifth street station, was complainant in Yorkville Court today against two fourteen-year-old girls, whom he found engaged in a regular pitched battle in East Thirty-fifth street, near First avenue, last night.

Pick said about fifty girls, most of whom work in cigarette factories in the neighborhood, meet regularly on this street. Hardly a night passes without a set-to among them, and they fight like men. At the approach of policemen, they scatter. Pick added that he has frequently warned them about fighting, but said that he would no longer be out of sight than a ring would be formed and the fighting would continue.

His prisoners were Tessie Moran, of East Thirty-fifth street, and Maggie Nady, living nearby. Tessie is of Irish descent, while Maggie is an Italian. They fought over a remark passed by Maggie about a boy named O'Brien, fourteen years old, of East Thirty-fifth street, who it appears is a favorite of Tessie's.

Maggie and Tessie were on friendly terms until last night, when Tessie, by calling Maggie a "bitch," struck her at the same time a blow in the face with her fist.

This was too much for Maggie to stand. She shouted to Tessie, "Come on, you rag doll!" and the next moment they were punching each other, surrounded by a gang of boys and girls shouting encouragement.

When the policeman appeared on the scene the spectators fled in every direction, but the principals were too hotly engaged to mind him. Both were rolling on the sidewalk, pulling each other's hair and landing an occasional blow. It required the united efforts of Pick and another officer, Coffey, to pull the two apart.

Both were a sight to behold. Their faces were bloated and their hair had been pulled out of each other's heads. Pick decided to make an example of them by making them prisoners. After their pedigrees were entered on the station-house blotter and their faces washed they were taken to the Gerry Society's room for the night.

Maggie gave Tessie a bad reputation. She said that Tessie three months ago was expelled from St. Gabriel's School for misconduct. Tessie since she left school had been at work in a cigarette factory in East Fifty-second street, but at present is leading a baby for a neighbor.

Maggie is a cashier in a dry-goods store on Sixth avenue. She said her father was murdered in March, 1934, by an Italian, who has never been captured. He shot her father in the head at 623 East Thirty-fourth street.

At the request of Agent Wilson the girls were committed to his care for further examination by Justice Deane, to give him time to examine their records.

He Mixed Those Babies Up.
Julia Gluck, of 35 East Eighth street, is anxious to see Dr. Samuel Hessel, Jr., a dentist, of 113 West Thirty-third street. She claims he assumed to marry her after his father's death was born, which she said. Afterwards she declared it was in the Foundation. She demanded the child, and claims the baby turned over to her in the night. Hessel has gone away and Miss Gluck will bring suit against him.

MYSTERY OF A SOFA.

Was a Man Concealed in It to Commit a Robbery?

A few days ago a furniture wagon bearing no name and containing two men was driven to the residence of Nathan Hoffheimer, 41 East Seventy-sixth street. Members of the Hoffheimer family were absent, but two servants were in the house. One of the men rang the bell and informed a servant that he had a package to deliver. The package was a sofa, which had been ordered by Mrs. Hoffheimer.

With the help of the other man the sofa was carried upstairs. A short time later the men returned and explained that a mistake had been made and that the sofa should have been delivered elsewhere. They were permitted to take it. Later it was discovered, so the neighbors say, that a lot of valuable silverware and jewelry had been stolen. The servants are positive that neither of the men took anything, as they were closely watched.

The theory was then evolved that a third man was hidden in the sofa, who stole the articles. When seen by a reporter, denied that anything had been stolen. He said that he was called upon by a man calling upon her mother and telling a story of three men robbing a house. He said that he was called upon by a man, which Mrs. Hoffheimer refused to receive.

20TH CENTURY GIRL ROW.

Ludwig Engländer, Composer, Wants an Injunction.

Ludwig Engländer, the composer, was told to furnish a bond for $10,000 today and he could have a temporary injunction restraining Canary & Lederer from publishing "Twenty-First Century Girl" pending claims of a suit to recover $100.

Engländer claims Canary & Lederer agreed to pay him 3 per cent. of the gross receipts of the burlesque, which, up to date, amounted to $1,200, which he has received only $200.

"Well, get a damn bond and hand up your papers," said Ludwig Engländer, counsel for Canary & Lederer, after the court had refused to grant an injunction. He was absent from his theatre last night. He got a stay until tomorrow.

Threatens to Kill a Bride.
Mrs. Sophia Calway, of 874 Wythe avenue, was held for trial in the Lee Avenue Police Court, yesterday, charged with threatening to kill her son-in-law, George P. Webster, appraiser of Robert H. Hamilton's estate, reports the value at $12,000.

George P. Webster, appraiser of Robert H. Hamilton's estate, reports the value at $12,000. From this an annuity of $1,200 is set aside for Webster. The child named of Mrs. Hamilton as his own. The judge is mentioned in Hamilton's will as a "stranger."

Mrs. De Young a Life-Saver.
Mrs. Gordon De Young, a Jersey City woman, jumped into the water from the New York Yacht Club dock on Tuesday, and rescued a young boy from drowning. This is the third rescue of the sort of which Mrs. De Young is the heroine.

Ran Away to Be Married.
Dr. Wallace Wilson, of 119 Pacific street, and Miss Blanche M. O'Neil, of 631 Kossuth street, both of Brooklyn, were quietly married in Jersey City yesterday by Justice Deane. It was a love match, and the bride's parents were not aware of it until informed by a reporter.

No Costs for Louise & Co.
Counsel for Louise & Co., whose troubles over a military bill with Mrs. Cooper Hewitt were settled last night by Justice Deane. It was a love match, and the bride's parents were not aware of it until informed by a reporter.

VACCINATING BABIES.

Health Department Bureau Overruns with Little Tots.

In a big room in the northwest corner on the ground floor of the Criminal Courts Building this morning, were more babies than are usually seen at any baby show. Over ninety little tots were there, and they ranged in age from two months to three years, and in color from a painfully transparent white to a near approach to black.

All of the babies were there to be vaccinated. For the past three or four days the Health Department's Vaccination Bureau has been overrun with babies. Dr. Ayvazian, who is the physician in charge, said this morning:

"There is a superstition among many of the poorer people that babies should be vaccinated in the month of May. These people will wait until May before getting their children vaccinated, and the consequence is that we are overworked at this time."

Last Saturday we vaccinated 481 babies. Today they are coming in fast as you see. The fact is that May is not the best month to vaccinate babies. January is much better month for the operation, as the weather is colder then and the sore will not irritate the child so much.

Some of the mothers with the babies brought their lunches with them to the Vaccination Bureau, and made a sort of picnic of the occasion. The doctors expect to vaccinate 500 babies this month.

Miss Kennedy Protests.

Miss Rachel Kennedy, of 41 Fifth avenue, has sent a protest to the Board of Health and Foreign Missions against the sale of the Frenchman House at 41 Fifth avenue. Miss Kennedy is one of the heirs of the Frenchman estate, and makes her protest on the grounds that the house at 41 Fifth avenue was sold to the French and Home Boards for her family at a reduced rate with the understanding that it should be the family's permanent home.

He Drew the Line at Triplets.

James Major, of 21 Sixth street, was arrested by Justice Deane in East Market Police Court yesterday, charged with abandoning his wife. Major has been married four years, in that time his wife has given him two and a half triplets. When the triplets were born, Major was driven to the Country Club, Westchester, by the public health officer, by Dr. Seaward Webb. There were a dozen in the party.

TRIED TO KISS HER BABY.

Sad Episode in Court in a Divorce Suit.

Little Eva Julia Bauer, two years old, and John F. Bauer, sixteen months old, were brought into Supreme Court Chambers today on a writ of habeas corpus obtained by their mother, Mary Bauer. She asks the Court to decide between the claims of herself and husband, John M. Bauer, to their custody. A suit for divorce is pending.

Bauer is a well-to-do tailor at 1641 Third avenue. Mrs. Bauer was seated in a corner of the courtroom when her husband and children entered. She rushed to the baby and kissed him. A crowd of female relatives surrounded the children and barred Mrs. Bauer's progress.

"Why can't I have my little babies who are a part of my heart?" she cried in German. "I will have them—I don't care to live without them."

Mrs. Bauer's counsel and the court officers quieted her and wept bitterly. She returned to her seat. The hearing was adjourned until Saturday.

Had Fun with the Policeman

James B. Wilkins, janitor of this house 631 West Broadway street, on Wednesday night was found lying in a noisy condition on the floor. When Wilkins saw his colored wife he said: "Come here and I'll do you as Mary Martin was done." "No you won't," exclaimed Officer Maguire, who ran around a table in the center of the room and dodged behind chairs, the parolman following him. Finally Mrs. Wilkins went out and sought in four policemen. When Wilkins caught sight of the reinforcements he stopped suddenly. When taken to the Yorkville Police Court this morning he told Justice Deane that he had no intention of harming his wife and was only having a little fun with the parolman. He was fined $1.

$1,000 Cat on Exhibition.

The first annual Cat Show, which opened yesterday at Madison Square Garden, had 800 entries. Numbers of women and a few men attended the opening day and night. Among the exhibits are a short-haired Dublin breed cat belonging to B. G. Hughes, valued at $1,000, and a pet named Alvin, owned by Miss Maud Brooks, which began yesterday afternoon.

W. Seaward Webb on the Box.

A coaching party given by Mrs. Eugene Schiffrin, was driven to the Country Club, Westchester, by the public health officer, by Dr. Seaward Webb. There were a dozen in the party.

SUCCESS OF COTTOLINE

From beginning to end the great success of the food exhibit in Grand Central Palace, 43d and Lexington Ave., has been COTTOLINE, the vegetable shortening. It attracted the housewife who desired to improve her cooking and reduce her expenses—the dyspeptic looking for food that could be eaten without distress—the epicure looking for dainty dishes and the expert cook in search of new ideas. COTTOLINE has attracted everyone, everywhere, since it was first introduced to the kitchens of the world. The genuine COTTOLINE is sold everywhere in this with trade-mark—steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin. THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, CHICAGO, and Produce Exchange, N. Y.
